UP-TO-DATE FASHION

Souvenir for Every Lady Who Attends the Tuesday Night Performance.

A play that holds the world's record as a money-maker will be the attraction at the Lyceum theater next week when the favorite stock company present "Charley's Aunt," the laugh-producer that has sent a ring of good cheer and laughter round the world for almost 20 years. "Charley's Aunt" was played at the Lyceum about 18 months ago, and it holds the Lyceum box office record for actual profits on a week's run. That fact is sufficient in itself to insure the success of a return engagement of the play. It is doubtful if there is one theater-goer of average means who has not seen "Charley's Aunt," one or more times. It has been played all over the world and has generated fun and good cheer as easily in Hong Kong, China as in London, England. As a lawyer would say there is not one bit of evidence to show that "Charley's

SCENE FROM "CHARLEY'S AUNT" AT THE LYCEUM THEATER ALL NEXT WEEK

Aunt" was built for any purpose other than to create laughter, and it has fulfilled its mission in a manner that leaves no doubt as to the reason for its existence.

The management of the Lyceum plans to present the play in a thoroughly up-to-date fashion and with a cast that is the finest that can possibly be assembled at the popular stock play-house. The following is the line-up for next week: Jack Chesney, R. E. Bradbury, Charles Wychem, Richard Fraser, Lord Fancourt Babberly, Edward Hearn, Sir Francis Chesney, E. C. Edwards, Steven Spettigue, Wallace Howe, Hrassett, Harold Holland, Kitty Vernon, from Lorton, Amy Spettigue, Florence Darling, Ella Delaher, Alice Hiral, Donna Lucia De Alvarado, Fanny Keeler.

Matinees of "Charley's Aunt" will be played Wednesday and Saturday and souvenir photographs of Edward Hearn and Fanny Keeler will be presented to every lady who attends the Tuesday night performance.

Reading a number of manuscripts sent to a play contest, Oliver Morosco finds a play by a young Japanese writer named Aoki and plans organizing a company of Japanese actors and producing the piece as a novelty next season. The young Japanese writer was brought over here to appear with a Japanese company in the making of motion pictures. Morosco declares he has written a more startling little tragedy than "Madame Butterfly." As the piece now stands it is called "The Blood of My People."

Theatre News and Notes

For the tour of William H. Crane and Douglas Fairbanks, with whom are associated Amelia Bingham and Patricia Collings, in "The New Henrietta," a route has been laid out that will include all parts of the country. Before the present season closes, late in May, several important cities will be visited, including Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Toronto. A statistician who has posted himself on Mr. Crane's long experience on the American stage has figured that the comedian has played to over fifteen million people and to receipts of probably seventeen million dollars. He has paid out approximately four million dollars in salaries, over two million dollars in newspaper advertising and one million dollars to railroads. Most of the rest of the money, one conjectures, Mr. Crane still retains.

"Le Filu Sursaturé" will be the first New York production for the new season at the New Amsterdam theater. With pleasant memories of "The Pink Lady," "Oh! Oh! Delphine" and "The Little Cafe," it is safe to assume that it will be something of an event. As in the previous popular musical plays, the music will be composed by Ivan Caryll. The book and lyrics will be written by Harry B. Smith. Again, as in "The Pink Lady," "Oh! Oh! Delphine" and "The Little Cafe" the play will be an adaptation of a French farce. The original "Le Filu Sursaturé," by Goret Dancoart and Maurice Vaucaire, had a vogue in Paris a few seasons ago. The leading comedy parts will be played by Frank Lator, who will be favorably recalled in "The Pink Lady"; Fred Walton, who was seen in "The Count of Luxembourg," and Frank Deane, who had one of the important roles in "Oh! Oh! Delphine." Klaw and Erlanger are the producers.

With the sale of the Australian stage rights and the world's motion picture rights to "Help Wanted," Oliver Morosco, the producer, and Jack Lait, the author of this successful play, have added to the already large profits derived from Mr. Lait's story of the young stenographer and the susceptible employer. For some time Mr. Morosco has had considerable trouble with motion picture pirates, who seemed bent upon having "Help Wanted" on the screen before he could get his company there. Through the Burns Detective Agency, however, Mr. Morosco managed to stop the pirating and has now disposed of the film rights to this drama to Thomas H. Ince. The pictures will be made in California this summer and probably a majority of the members of the cast will appear before the camera.

Many are the inquiries as to who she is and how she secured the position thrown up by Emily Stevens, the brilliant leading woman, until recently engaged in the seven-month run of "Today" at the Forty-Eighth street theater, New York. Her name is Ethel Valentine and she was but one of scores of young actresses who made application when it was announced that seven companies in addition to the original organization would tour the country next season. Miss Valentine's letter was of particular appeal because in it she stated that she had seen the play eight times and felt that she was born for the part. An interview was granted her and she made so favorable an impression upon the management that she was given the part to study. One performance, a matinee, secured the part for her in the No. 1 company.

Charles Kirt's first play since "The Gamblers" has recently been completed in London, where the writing of it has occupied the greater part of three years. In his new play Mr. Kirt has, one is told, sought to visualize in vivid dramatic contrast a vital phase of American mental activity, the result of changing social conditions. In their contract with the author, Selwyn & Company agree to provide what will be in effect an all-star cast, and negotiations are now in progress with a number of the best known players in America and England for important roles in the production. The play is as yet unnamed. The next American play to be produced in London is "The Arlyle Case," in which Robert Hilliard is appearing on the Pacific Coast. In London the Hilliard role will be played by Fred Terry and his wife, Julia Neilson, will be seen as Mrs. Martin. "The Arlyle Case" is now being played in Australia by Charles Millward, while Pierre Docourcelles is preparing a version for the French stage. Soon the mystery of the dictagraph and roneophone will be known to theater-goers in all parts of the globe. Mrs. Ann Westerholt, of Hackensack, N. J., has celebrated her one hundredth birthday. Friends' Select school, Philadelphia, is now in its 225th year of activity.

GIRL WINS $1000
ON 'COPY BOOK'
LOVE EPISTLES

Miss Klepsa is Awarded Cash
by Jury for G. Lupinck's
Broken Promise.

New York, June 20.—A swain, who is alleged to have sent "copy book love letters" to his sweetheart, was directed to pay $1,000 for his broken promise of marriage by a supreme court jury before Justice Doonnelly.

The verdict was in favor of Miss Agnes Klepsa, a pretty Bohemian girl, who met Geoffrey Lupinck soon after he came to America. Lupinck fell in love at first sight with the brown eyes of Agnes and told her he wanted her to become his wife. He repeated the promise in many letters and postal cards. Once he wrote:

"From the time when I first had the pleasure of your company your image has ever been near me. From mere friendship my heart has ripened into ardent love. Have you not suspected the depth of my attachment?"

Lupinck lived at 357 East Seventy-second street when he was thus pouring out his affection. The engagement was announced and Miss Klepsa received a diamond ring. For three years she and Lupinck were on the best of terms.

One night the engaged couple went to a dance and quarrelled. The prospective bridegroom wrote a letter and his bride-to-be made a hot reply. The quarrel was never patched up.

Lupinck said the engagement was broken and his fiancee replied that she would apply to the court for relief.

Through Attorney Charles Recht she sued for $2,000 damages.

Reduce Cost Building

ROBINS AND RED SOX TAKE GAME EACH YESTERDAY

Ryan Won First Game 7 to 2, and Concanon the Evening 3 to 2.

Moore Jay, June 20.—Moore Jay and Regina split even on their double-header here yesterday, the locals dropping the first game, 7-2, while they came back at night and won out 3-2. Ryan pitched about half in the afternoon, while Concanon and Berger had a battle royal in the evening. The night game was marked by much umpire bawling and took two hours and 15 minutes to complete.

Score: First game—R. H. E. Moore Jay... 0 0 0 0 10-2 5 3 Regina... 200 201 000-7 14 0 Batteries—Kurfess and Wally; Ryan and Neta.

SONS OF ENGLAND WIN FROM SWIFTS

Best Football Game of Season With Score Three to One.

The Sons of England football club defeated the Swifts team last evening by a 3 to 1 score, in one of the best games of the season. Swifts were the first to score, Moffatt shooting from a penalty and easily beating Parker. This was to be their last tally, however, as the next three went to the Sons.

Ockenden scored the first of the trio when he got the ball on a mis-kick by Moffatt and put it on the half-mile score at one all. The next tally came from Bradford who took the pass from Jennings, and soon after, Bradford and Ockenden came down and the former tallied again from a difficult angle. This ended the scoring of both teams and one of the best games of the season had been played.

Tom Foster refereed the game to good satisfaction and lined the teams up as follows:

Sons of England—Goal, Parker; back, McCurdy and Pindley; forwards, Glasgow, Grieve, Cuff, Higgs and Henry.

Swifts—Goal, Stockdale; back, Bowater and Moffatt; half-backs, Roxburgh, McCurdy and Pindley; forwards, Glasgow, Grieve, Cuff, Higgs and Henry.

TRACK TEAM TO REPRESENT CITY PROVINCIAL MEET

The track team to represent Edmonton in the provincial athletic meet at Medicine Hat on Dominion Day has been selected and is composed of the following: Stuart Pearce, Wm. Pocock, Ross Sheppard and Roy Halliburton. This is positively the pick of Edmonton athletes and may be counted upon to bring back a large portion of the provincial honors to this city. Not only does this quartette form the fastest relay team that ever represented the city, but each in their own events outside of the relay race, can be counted upon to bring home the bacon.

The first principle of athletics as in all other things is "system." Lay out a plan and adhere to it strictly. Whatever the plan or rule you adopt, stick rigidly to it.

Scrappiest Game Seen This Season Ended in 7 to 7 Score—Pitcher Beer to the Rescue as Usual.

Medicine Hat, June 20.—Darkness Thursday night's game, retired the last night ended one of the finest and scrappiest diamond battles ever seen. On the local diamond when Saskatoon and Medicine Hat played nine innings to a 7-7 tie. The game was won by both teams on two or three occasions, and not until the last man was down and the umpire had called the contest was anyone able to say with certainty the final standing. In the ninth when the locals had the game apparently on ice the visitors came back with a grand finish and jumped into a one-run lead. Then Medicine Hat came back and tied it up and had a man on third with one down. It looked like a win sure. Northrup, who was more or less wild, was derailed, and Beer once more went to the rescue, and as he did

YALE WINS THE ANNUAL RACE FROM HARVARD

New London, Conn., June 20.—By the narrow margin of four inches Yale won the Varsity four mile race on the Thames river late yesterday afternoon after a struggle which will stand out as one of the greatest in the rowing history of the two universities.

On board the judge's boat at the finish line could be seen the arbiters of the race frankly gasping in conference and it was some minutes before they finally decided the blue had won.

Yale led from the start though there was never more than three-quarters of a boat's length between the two crews. Towards the end the crimson pulled up on even terms with the blue and it was impossible for spectators to tell which crew had won, so close was the contest at the finish. The time was Yale 21:16; Harvard 21:16 1/2.

HARRY VARDON AGAIN WINNER IN GOLF HONORS

London, June 20.—Harry Vardon for the sixth time captured the British golf championship yesterday after a close battle with John H. Taylor. Taylor led the champion during the morning round by 2 strokes, but met with difficulties during the afternoon play and could do no better than 81, while Vardon completed his second round in 76, won the honors by three strokes. Vardon's total for the two days was 306, while Taylor's card was 308. Jenkins turned in the best score for the amateur, his total being 312, while Arnold Maas, the French representative, finished his teens. Francis Ouimet, the American champion, played a very poor game and was away down on the list, with a total of 322. Harold Hilton retired from the tourney after the morning's play.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

By Al Shrubbs.

Why cross country running is not one of the premier sports in Canada I find it hard to understand. It is one of the best sports in the world. I find Canadians referring to road racing as cross country run, but, of course, this is entirely wrong. There is only one cross country event in Canada that I know of at the present time, and that is the ten mile event at Guelph on Thanksgiving Day.

I think it is time that Canada showed her hand in this sport. There can be nothing superior to cross country running either for pleasure or health. And it is a splendid basis of training for other distances. Cross country runs should be organized, say once a week, and the men taken out of training for other distances. Cross country runs could easily be made for a place to run from. Give the men a chance to run over the "real country," hop the fence and plug their way through the ploughed fields.

I think it would double the number of competitive athletes in Canada if this form of sport were taken up. There is pleasure and health in it and the men who went out for the fun would soon find whether or not they were suitable for other work. As a basis of training for distance men I know no better, of course, short distance men should stick to the cinders pretty well.

In all my years of running I attribute my success to cross country work. England and America are the two leading nations athletically today. Their clubs and their colleges all cater to the cross country man, and if you look over their entries you will find the names of their best track and road men all mixed up in the cross country game. It is not uncommon for them to have over one hundred starts in their events. The great English national championship runs every year, know no less than 200 entries. The game is a good one and Canada should take it up.

Training Hints.

There is one grand principle that must be followed in all training in the undertaking: even of any minor form of athletics, one must follow the principles of the whole, never be feds to do, do it with his whole mind.

It is all very well for people to say that you must drink your meals and your habits have no effect. They do in the long run. But it is undoubtedly a fact that certain people are given muscles and conditions that help them to realize their capabilities quicker and with more successful results than others.

There is also the man who runs nationally without apparent head to training or rules of any kind. He is the one who with the best legs and 10 cent head. It is surprising how some of the most away with it, but there is a fact that certain people are given muscles and conditions that help them to realize their capabilities quicker and with more successful results than others.

HELP THE GIRLS!

YOUR 4.20

Jack Tait, Canadian Champion, Gives Advice Gained From Experience.

I have had numerous inquiries for advice on "How to run a mile," and will endeavor to put down what I have found from experience to be necessary in the running of a championship mile in the neighborhood of 4.20. While I cannot expect to hit the same speed, the principle of the thing is the same and the same tactics can be employed in slower times the same distance.

The mile is undoubtedly one of the hardest events on the program, and a man to run this distance, as a winner, must be an equally good quarter and half-mile runner and also able to cover a distance up to two miles. Three things are essential—endurance, speed and style—all can be obtained by careful attention and hard work.

To run a 4.20 mile a man must hit a quarter mile in 55 seconds to 1 minute, a half mile in 1:05 to 1:10 and the three quarters not worse than 1:55. From this it is seen that a mile is practically covering the ground in the same stride that a quarter or half-mile uses, making practically the same time, and only losing the seconds gained by the runner going the shorter distance, when he throws in his sprint on end.

There is always a fall off in the third quarter, due partly to the strain of the first half and also as a "lay-off" for the last quarter where a 30-yard or so sprint is necessary. Time should be made in the first half when the runner is fresh and strong, and he should hold the early pace without fatigue, but he must "rate" himself and not be drawn into a sprint or carried into the stride which he is unable to hold with being "within himself." Athletes will understand my meaning.

There should be practically no change in the speed of pace from start to finish. An even stride brings less exertion than a change of speed should be required by the lengthening or shortening of stride without change in the fall and rise of the feet. Thus, of course, does not deal with the finish.

In my mind the ideal finish is a long stride, not so much a sprint as a "wind up." Coming into the last quarter run on pace to the 200, then bending slightly forward (still holding a reserve sprint) increase the length of your stride, kicking off stronger and stronger, to the hundred without breaking into an actual sprinting gait, reserving your final dash for the "straddle" or even leaving it at times until the last "fifty."

The matter of style is an important one. The "amateur" runner always has an advantage, he works less hardship on himself. The stride for a mile is a long one, averaging about 5 1/2 feet. There should be no throwing of the feet up behind, neither should a runner hob up and down in the air. It is right out in front and "forward" all the time, with a powerful "kick-off" that comes with precision. Do not stride too long for yourself, as it only leaves you hanging in the air, you must do your running on the ground and have the feet behind your stride to carry you through the air "low" and over a distance.

After the kick-off, throw the leg well out in front, low extended, reaching for the cinders and gaining every inch of ground. The arm action is very important. Legs and arms must work in unison. Carrying the hands about waist high, bent at the elbows, is about the best style, they should not be swung too much, the exception being a mile. When on the run they are of more service in steadying your stride and should be held in a firm, straight line and not tensed until the final dash.

When running see that you are going right ahead, when your head bobs up and down with each stride. In conditioning myself for a mile I run "easy" and use only my distance, commencing training, I take just slow runs of two miles to get legs, arms, stomach, wind in condition, and practice "form." I run this distance about three times in the first week.

Then mix a little speed with your long work. Jogging a quarter mile, work into a sprint to fifty yards, ease down to a trot and take another fifty. About a mile and a half run with about a sprint, ending up with a full hundred yard run. The distance between should be very slow, just a "keep going."

Running three or four nights a week, work two of them at a quarter, half, mile and a half. Generally I keep my mind and running separate until in condition.

It is foolish to hurry his training, and the more you get it, the longer your condition will last. Run, consistently, but do not take the game too seriously. Get as much fun out of your work as possible. Make your training "play." Have company with you at the track. With some one taking an interest in your work it helps a hundred per cent. Do not run just my mind and running separate until every two weeks, when making a trial. It is liable to discourage you.

Personally, I have never taken seriously to dieting. Good, plain food will keep you in good condition, and you have habits that will work an injury you it is absolutely necessary to cut down on eating and drinking and too much "fussing," although indulged in some of your best athletes are still admitted by them to be a big eater.

MATTY GETS $187.50 AN HOUR; WORKS 80 HOURS IN A SEASON

Christy Mathewson, the New York Giant pitcher, earns more money per hour than any other salaried man in the world.

Tris Speaker, of the Red Sox, gets a larger salary than Matty yet Speaker gets less than one-third as much per working hour as does Matty. President Woodrow Wilson, with his $75,000 a year, gets less than one-sixth as much for actual working hours as does Matty and Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel corporation, who is said to draw down something like $100,000 a year for his labors acts less than one-fourth of Matty's hourly salary.

Mathewson is drawing $15,000 a year from the Giants. To earn this sum he is called upon to work only about two hours a day, and works only about one day in each four. At a high estimate Matty will work in 40 complete games in a season, which, figured at two hours per game, will mean that the total time he actually works during a season is just 80 hours.

Simple arithmetic will prove that a man drawing $15,000 a year for 80 hours work will earn an average of $187.50 an hour, or more than $2 a minute. Speaker's total salary for this year will be $15,000. But to earn this he must labor in 154 full games of two hours each. That makes a total of 308 hours that he must "toil," and gives him an average hourly earning capacity a trifle over $48 an hour.

With President Wilson it's a different matter. He is supposed to be on the job during every working day in the year. And there are 312 such days each year. Wilson puts in an average day of eight hours each, but very few, he works much longer than eight hours a day, and very often he works not only six but seven days a week, especially on such times as the Mexican crisis.

Not allowing that Wilson puts in each year only 312 days of eight hours each, it will figure up a total of 2504 hours, giving him an hourly earning capacity of a trifle less than $50.

Book For Men, Free 8,000 Words, 30 Illustrations

TO MY READERS: Of the little illustrated advice book described below, which I address free to all men who will take the trouble to read it, I have received many requests. I am glad to say that it represents the very best information of a private life which I am able to offer you as a result of over 20 years' observation and experience. It is a book which will help you in many ways, and I have personally interviewed many thousands of men, young and elderly, single and married, rich and poor alike, who came to me in confidence, with their confessions of debility, lost nerve force and failing strength.

It is, reader, this vast and unusual opportunity which has enabled me to compile this very popular and valuable little free book, and I am glad to say that it has been sent everywhere to men who have asked for it. In a manner to reflect the exact living, breathing experiences and needs of real men who sought information and help in the way of self treatment without the use of drugs.

Remember, this book of over 8,000 words and 30 illustrations will come to you by return mail, and I will require nothing for it. I have received many requests, and I am glad to say that it represents the very best information of a private life which I am able to offer you as a result of over 20 years' observation and experience.

Therefore, please use the coupon, or if nearby, write the very word to have you call. I am, Sir, Yours truly, L. A. W. BANNER, Author.

It is a fact, reader, which you and I must recognize, that the whole world admires and is fascinated by strong, vigorous, healthy men. And we must also admit that it is the same much-loved and desired quality which behind the leaders and producers in the world, and in the matter where we go, we find it to be the manly, vigorous, vital fellow who forces to the front, who fascinates and wins the admiration of his community, who shows the real great things. An unmanly man merely makes his name known, but he who has a manly nature, who takes the back seat, who does not fit into the picture in a way that a manly, vital nature should.

And, reader, it is my firm belief that no man, no matter what his past, no matter what disabilities or failures may have left their mark upon his physical and mental being. You say to me, "such a man, unless there be some unusual reason, may live for a long time, but he will not return to his strength, vigor and self confidence, if he is not helped."

MISTAKES IN TENNIS PRACTICE.

There are a lot of things, particularly the younger ones, who play night after night trying endlessly to win. They know how their feet should be placed, that they should turn sideways to take a drive, and get well under for a smash, etc. Instead of practicing their weak strokes, however, probably 90 per cent of the men play tennis in Toronto today are not improving their game by 10 per cent a year.

WHAT, WHO, WHY ARE HE FEDS?

The Federal league is a major league because they called themselves so and the public was willing and anxious to be fooled—they always are.

On the rosters of the eight Federal clubs, and their play on the field they still were a major league. They don't play as good ball; haven't as clever players; are loaded down with not only major league cast-offs, but also many men who were done in this league.

They have a few first-class ball players of major league calibre, but their numbers are not sufficient to warrant anybody in making or calling them a major league.

As remarked in these columns before the Federals have the sympathy of the public. They are a "cheap" league, a large percentage of humans are "amateur" work, and they are "cheap" before. The hardest worked man on any ball team is in the line; a pile of them see great stacks of money for club owners and want to get in.

The Fed, dug up the money all right. They interested enough in the mind men to make them a power in a fight and met no real opposition from organized ball for reasons best known to the latter.

Players jumped to them for big salaries, and they were running on terms. These men form the show portion of the league, but the big list are just fill-ins.

They are more than that these latter, because in nearly every case they are old, worn-out war horses who have lost all their speed and vigor. No body need go any farther than to recall what kind of team this kind of men could make.

The Fed, were wise enough in their generation to get newspaper backing, and an ever-ready willingness to be used by men politically to take part in their proceedings on the field. They knew how to spurn and bluff in true American style and get away with it. The gang likes a fuss.

Every big occasion found them boosting their attendance to double the actual figures and the public at large believed them because they wanted it.

For instance, on opening day at Brooklyn the figures given out were 15,000. The actual people there, however, were 7,500 paid and 2,500 on passes.

The next day 2,400 people paid and there was no opposition from the National league team on either day. They had a season of what was called on all along the line and is going on now.

WHAT IS HARDEST JOB ON BALL TEAM?

What is the hardest position on the field to play? Third base, you say? Or maybe catcher? Or pitcher? All wrong! The hardest position to play, strange as it is, is the one that requires the least work. In fact, it is quite before. Some think the pitcher the hardest job, because in nearly every case they are old, worn-out war horses who have lost all their speed and vigor. No body need go any farther than to recall what kind of team this kind of men could make.
